

Hearing the VOICES Echo

What happened?

As a response to Mary Ann Lundy's resignation, a group of women started an organization in continued support for everything the Reimagining Conference stood for. They named themselves the Voices of Sophia and began their work in 1994, then became an official organization in 1995. They advocated for LGBTQIA+ rights, women's rights, education of young women, BIPOC rights, and actively fought against the oppressive institution they were under until 2010.
